ARMENIANS IN LONDON.

The three assassinations of Armenians by Armenians that have occurred within the last few days in London will open the eyes of the ignorant sentimentalists at home as to what manner of people many of the Sultan's subjects really are. The Servian tragedy and the Salonica outrages will act as reminders to show that the task of the Turkish Government is not quite so simple as it looks. These recent tragedies in the streets of London are quite as strikingly illustrative of some of the forces behind those questions of "oppressed nationality" which have puzzled so much food for English sentiment. It has been the custom to regard the Turk and his Christian subjects in the relations of the wolf and the lamb. Some of the "lamb" in the Balkans and elsewhere must be of the species for which Nottingham was formerly celebrated. The slaughter of P.M. Sagouni and the triple tragedy announced yesterday reveal the most violent section of the Armenian revolutionaries as a vindictive faction without scruple or mercy, using assassination as a deliberate means of extirpating the creed of a more temperate nationalist fervor. The outrages are fine examples of the respect and gratitude of the non-scrupulous alien towards the country which affords him the surest and most compliant hospitality.

This morning's telegram states that the motive of the murders is obscure, and that they are "apparently the outcome of a feud between rival revolutionary societies, advocating active and passive methods respectively." A committee of five in London represent the interests of the Armenian Revolutionary Society. That body was started in 1887 with the object of restoring the miracle of their country, passively if possible, but by violent means if necessary. Last week a convention of passive Armenian revolutionaries was held in London, and perhaps this occasion had been chosen by the more revolutionary members of the society for disposing of their passive leaders. At any rate, the differences between the two sections of the revolutionary society are of long standing. One of the chief representatives in London of the passive party was Sagouni, who was assassinated at Peckham last week on his return from Switzerland, where he had been visiting N. N. N., a member of the same party, whose life was attempted in the previous week. Early in the present summer an Armenian named Chirif was done to death in the streets of Odessa while on his way to A-mela.

He will embark to-morrow at Jeddah for the Khedivial steamer for Port Said and thence proceed to Djibouti. The Colonel declares that he intends to resign his post very shortly in favour of his assistant, Captain Babitcheff. It appears that he has decided to take this step in consequence of his recent marriage, which renders it difficult for him to continue to reside in the remote dominions of Emperor Menelik. (Our Correspondent).

A DESERT FEUD.

For some time past three Bedouin tribes between the Tripoli frontier and Mars Matrouh have been quarrelling about a well, and at the end of last month hostilities broke out, with the result that three Bedouins were killed and seven wounded.

A coastguard patrol, under the command of Yousuf Shalabi Effendi, proceeded there on November 1 and arrested eighteen of the ringleaders in the fight. The patrol took them to Mars Matrouh, where they arrived on the 4th inst. and an enquiry has been opened.

MARONITES AND THE SUDAN.

According to Al Watan, the Sudan Government is doing all it can to encourage Syrians to emigrate to the Sudan.

MINING CONCESSIONS.

We have still one or two copies left of the map of the Egyptian and Sudan goldfields, recently published by the Charto Map and Plan Company of London. As we have been requested to return the remainder to the publishers, we take this opportunity of reminding those of our readers who are interested in the subject, in order that they may have an opportunity of securing the last few copies of this map, for which we are the sole agents in Egypt. As a work of reference for the mining concessions throughout the Nile valley it is unique, for it is the only up-to-date map which shows at a glance the entire course of the concessions, and no bank or financial house ought to be without a copy. The cost of the map is 27s.

DISABILITIES OF BRITISH TRADE IN TURKEY.

The following resolutions were unanimously carried at a recent meeting of the members of the British Chamber of Commerce in Constantinople and have been communicated to H. M.'s Ambassador in that city and to the Foreign Office:—

Resolved:—
That the attention of qui dicit be urgently directed:—

Firstly:—To the necessity of obtaining the execution of promises which have been made for years past, and which have not yet been honoured, by execution, to establish a launch system at Kavak for purposes of practice, thereby preventing delays to shipping and risk of loss of life to the crews.

Secondly:—To the necessity of a reduction of the sanitary dues, the present scale of which is warranted neither by the enormous sum already held in reserve by the sanitary administration nor by the annual revenue compared with the disbursements.

Thirdly:—To the necessity of a reduction on the present scale of dues of the Life Saving Service on ships trading irregularly in the Black Sea, the discrimination against such ships and in favour of regular liners, which are all non-British, being too great.

Fourthly:—To the necessity of a more vigorous official protection and promotion of the interests of British men of enterprise in this country.

(N.B.—The unanimous opinion of the meeting is that a more vigorous official protection would undoubtedly result in the removal of the opinion which prevails generally in England that British subjects need not apply for railway, mining or other concessions in Turkey, because justice will not be done to them, the necessary result of which prevailing opinion being that British capitalists, sooner than seek for concessions in their own names, invest their money in concessions obtained by foreign competitors, whose chief object is to serve the trading and shipping interests of their own countries to the serious detriment of those of Great Britain.)

Fifthly:—To the necessity of transforming the commercial attachéship at H. M.'s Embassy into a post which shall bring the consular into more constant and direct relations with the British commercial communities of the Levant generally.

(N.B.—The unanimous opinion of the meeting further is that to the post of commercial attaché should be attached increased responsibilities and powers for the more effective promotion of the interests of British trade, shipping and enterprise, in accordance with the well-considered intentions of the commercial communities which for many years would to induce H. M.'s Government, to create the post.)

THE HAMILTON FAILURE.

The Official Receiver, M. Paul Caloyanni, has lodged in the Mixed Tribunal, Cairo, a preliminary report in this liquidation, counter-signed by the two co-syndics nominated by the creditors. The report forecasts a dividend of about 20%, possibly to be supplemented by a further 5% on final liquidation, which the liquidators hope to complete three months hence.

SYRIA OTTOMAN RAILWAY.

An appeal was made on the 26th ult. to Mr. Justice Wright in the King's Bench Division against a decision of the Official Receiver's admitting a proof for £15,376 made by Mr. David Chapman, as a creditor of the estate of John Robert Pilling, the promoter of the Syria Ottoman Railway and kindred companies formed in connection with the construction of a line of railway from Acre to Damascus. It was contended on the debtor's behalf that a release of the debt had been given by Mr. Chapman, but the learned Judge held otherwise, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

A COASTGUARD TRAGEDY.

Up to date four Bedouins have been arrested in connection with the recent fatal affray with the coastguards, which took place at Bir-el-Suani, in the Libyan desert, about 100 miles to the west of Alexandria.

On October 27 a coastguard patrol, consisting of six Egyptian officers, four Sudanese, and one guide, met a party of Bedouins with sixteen camels close to Bir-el-Suani. The camels had their saddles on but were not carrying anything. As the men were well-known smugglers, the officer in charge of the patrol thought that they might have hashish hidden somewhere—He accordingly ordered the Bedouins to stand in order that he should examine their sacks. All then went to the well, where there were about fifty other Bedouins watering their herds. While the coastguards were engaged in watering the camels six of the smugglers took away the carabines from the coastguards' camels and at once opened fire on the coastguards.

The patrol, although quite taken by surprise and unarmed, bravely rushed at the Bedouins, but they were shot down before they could reach them. A corporal was wounded in two places and a private was killed. Another private was grazed by a bullet, and he and the corporal were cruelly lashed about the head by the Bedouins with the butt ends of the rifles as they lay prone and powerless. The Bedouins then made off with the carabines and the coastguards' camels.

All the coastguard stations on the coast were at once notified of the outrage, and patrols were forthwith despatched to scour the desert. They succeeded in arresting four of the guilty men on the 29th October in the Mariout district. Five of the eight camels and five of the six carabines taken have been recovered.

An enquiry is now proceeding at Mars Matrouh, and the prisoners are expected to arrive at Alexandria for trial in about two days' time by the cruiser Zareef.

SALT AND SODA COMPANY.

A native newspaper has received news from the neighbourhood of Khatebat to the effect that the Bedouins of the Wady-Natron are in a state of extreme irritation because their sheikh had been invited to appear before the local board of the Salt and Soda Company, when he was told that the company intended imposing a tax on the cattle herds of those Bedouins that live on the oasis of the Wady.

As the Bedouins of that part of the desert have no money but only a small quantity of miserable, half-starved sheep which live on the meagre grounds of the Wady, the company are asking for the tax to be paid at the rate of one head of cattle for each ten, viz. ten per cent. Naturally enough, the hardy sons of the desert stoutly refuse to pay. Sheikh M. Brook, chief of the Bedouins, belonging to the tribe of the Kawabes, who is a man of energy and common sense, declared that Mr. Hooker would not extract one milligram from the B.d. uins. Seeing that the Sheikh was determined, the general manager informed him that if the Bedouins refused to pay of their own accord, the Egyptian Government would compel them to do so.

Assuming that the facts, as given by our native contemporary, are correct, it would appear very unwise policy, as the company will end by coming into conflict with the Government by such measures. If the company does attempt to put a cattle tax on the Bedouins, who have hitherto not been taxed by the Government, the attempt will be sure to fail, as the expenses of collection will largely exceed the sum collected. It must also be borne in mind that such a proceeding would provoke bitter hatred and even hostility on the part of the powerful tribe of the Kawabes, encamped from Mariout to the Pyramids. Such hostility would certainly do away with the peace and security hitherto enjoyed in the Wady Natron.

CATTLE PLAGUE.

The only new locality infected with cattle plague mentioned in yesterday's bulletin is the village of El Badari, in Assiout Marks.

CAIRO THEATRICAL SEASON.

THE ATTRESS AND HER HEART.
The following is culled from the Daily Telegraph of yesterday week:—

On Saturday next will be heard at the Palais de Justice, Paris, a remarkable case concerning the heart of a young actress, Mlle. Henriette Rogers, who was a favourite for some time at the Athénée Theatre. Recently the actress signed an engagement for the Cairo Theatre with M. Daval, but subsequently backed out of her contract, alleging that she had a weak heart, and could not go to Egypt. M. Daval had her examined by a doctor attached to the Athénée, who said that she was thoroughly fit for the Cairo tour. M. Daval accordingly claimed 20,000 frs. for the non-fulfilment of the contract. Mlle. Rogers then obtained an order from a judge in chambers for her examination by Dr. Brouardel, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. That gentleman positively declared, after a careful diagnosis, that the actress could not go to Egypt owing to the state of her heart. The case has accordingly been set down for Saturday next, when the judge will hear one lawyer asserting the weakness of the heart of the young actress, while another will insist eloquently on the soundness of the valuable organ.

SPORT AND PLAY.

FOOTBALL.

RAS-EL-TIN ROYAL FUSILIERS.

Ras-el-Tin School are to be congratulated on their fine performance in registering another victory at the expense of the Royal Fusiliers yesterday. The soldiers, losing the toss, set the ball in motion, and although they were more frequently aggressive they were greatly handicapped by having the sun in their faces, which militated against accurate play. The school, however, withstood the pressure admirably and were not long in registering their first goal, which the goal-keeper had no earthly chance of stopping. Very shortly afterwards they added another from a corner. From the kick-off the Fusiliers began to assert themselves, with the result that they found the net, half time arriving with the score 2 to 1 in the school's favour. In the second half several of the players showed an inclination to indulge in unnecessary roughness, but the referee (Mr. Clarke-Shaw) promptly penalised any infringement of the rules. The Fusiliers again asserted their grit, and continued to press, and it was only the fine scientific play of the school's goalkeeper that averted disaster. The schoolboys again scored, the Fusiliers replying by another and a very exciting game ending in favour of the school by 3 to 2. Pte. Ellett, no doubt, was the best man on the field, being ably supported by Pte. Hodge, while Pte. Ansell kept goal admirably. The schoolboys all played well, reflecting great credit on Mr. Clarke-Shaw, who must have striven hard to bring them to their present pitch of perfection.

The following are the names of the players, Royal Fusiliers.—Goal, Pte. Ansell; backs, Cpl. Ott and Pte. May; ½ backs, Cpl. Brierly, Cpl. Simons, and Pte. Carter; forwards, Cpl. Hambridge, Cpl. Lewis, Cpl. Bord, Pte. Ellett, and Pte. Hodge. Ras-el-Tin School.—Goal, M. Bakir; backs, A. Sami and H. Riad; ½ backs, H. Mohamed, M. Amin, and Abd-el-Gil; forwards, H. Kamel, Mr. Hidding, A. F. Mansour, M. Hawdi, and Samwell. A very pleasant game is to be expected on Saturday next, when St. Andrew's are "at home" to the Royal Fusiliers on Mars Matrouh Bay common. Kick off 4 p.m. prompt.

Ministère de l'Instruction Publique.

Monsieur le Directeur de l'Égyptienne Gazette,

Je ne prendrais pas la peine de répondre aux lettres de M. Wissa Wassef, s'il n'y avait eu que volontairement ou involontairement un étrange méprise. On a-t-il vu que je reconnaissais l'extrême de tous les faits qu'il énumère? Tout dans ma réponse laisse supposer, au contraire, qu'il s'agit de bavardages sans fondement sérieux ou du moins de faits complètement dénués de tout intérêt. M. Wissa a voulu y voir un aveu et il est parti en guerre sur le mot "insignifiant" que j'applique aux petits riens qu'il nous rabâche dans son pathos habituel.

Hé bien! s'il est. Reprenons ces faits l'un après l'autre et voyons s'il ont pu amener la décadence de l'enseignement: 1° Il s'agit d'abord d'un professeur de plus de 50 ans auquel on a été l'école. Cela n'a pu évidemment influencer beaucoup l'enseignement public et prouve tout au plus que la victime de l'attentat n'était pas dépourvu de valeur et qu'il était traité humainement.

2° M. Wissa Wassef lui-même avait été chargé de surveiller l'impression des sujets d'examen de baccalauréat en 1896 et avait laissé passer inaperçus de fautes d'orthographe. On lui dit alors qu'il aurait dû avoir appris sa grammaire avant de se faire professeur. Le reproche était très mal mérité et il n'avait qu'à en prendre son parti.

3° Le directeur de l'école de Ras-el-Tin avait reçu une lettre où l'on semblait le rendre responsable de la perte d'un sac de monnaie qu'il était chargé d'envoyer au Caire. Le sac fut retrouvé et le directeur ne reçut pas un mot d'excuse! Et pour quel motif aurait-il dû recevoir des excuses, puisqu'il n'eût subi aucun dommage d'argent?

4° Les professeurs d'Arabe ont reçu l'ordre verbal de changer leur costume d'habit contre celui de cheikh. Et pour que leurs leçons en valaient moins pour cela?

5° Un professeur anglais s'étant absenté une circulaire fit connaître l'absence à tous ses collègues. Cette remarque, offerte le gré de M. Wissa, est toute à l'honneur de M. Dunlop en ce qu'elle démontre qu'il ne favorisait pas complètement un dévouement indigne.

6° J'ai déjà parlé du port de la redingote qui faisait partie des croyances les plus intimes d'un professeur de Ras-el-Tin.
7° Certaines accusations de M. Wissa Wassef sont empreintes de la plus évidente mauvaise foi, entre autres celle-ci: un professeur néglige de donner ordre d'une lettre de service. On lui demande à lorsqu'il reçoit quelque chose il ne doit pas donner un reçu. Il répond: non, si on n'en exige point. Alors, dit vivement son chef, vous êtes un voleur! La circonstance explique tout et celui qui voudrait y voir une insulte agissait de mauvaise foi.
8° Un certain M. A. O., un anglais, a été transféré à Assouan pour s'être plaint. Décidément M. Dunlop est d'une inconséquence inexcusable; il en veut aux égyptiens et c'est ainsi qu'il agit! Il n'en prend!

616 titre de camarade à titre de plaisir; elle n'a donc pas la gravité que lui prête M. Wiss. Chacun de nous du reste a pu remarquer que tout avant a, en général, un point grisé. Si M. Wiss en est exempt, il l'est à cause de la robe du professeur menacé de rétrogradation pour un volat ferré. Même en considérant les faits tels que les raconte M. Wiss Wassef qui a été à l'attention l'attitude mal honnête du subordonné, celui-ci nous paraît dans son tort. On doit toujours respecter ses chefs.

Et voilà les faits incommensurables qu'on nous répète à satiété, car, il faut bien le reconnaître, dans les dix à douze colonnes occupées par les lettres de M. Wiss Wassef, il n'y a pas autre chose. En les supposant toutes exactes, on a peine à croire que ces historiettes ridicules décolorées sur une si longue série d'années, aient pu influencer en aucune façon la marche de l'enseignement. Je l'ai dit et je le répète, le seul événement qui touche en quelque sorte les croyances des autochtones du pays, c'est celui de la redigote. Hé bien! M. Wiss Wassef en pensera ce qu'il voudra, mais un musulman instruit, qui a fait ses études en Europe et qui considère encore la redigote comme faisant partie de ses croyances les plus intimes, paraît étranger, pour la bonne raison que le Prophète n'a jamais connu la redigote et n'a pu, par le fait, la prescrire à ses disciples? qu'en dit le cheikh Aly Youssef?

J'avais donc raison de dire que ces menus faits n'avaient aucune importance réelle. Si l'on considère de plus leur nombre restreint, les circonstances dans lesquelles ils se sont produits, l'attitude insolente du subordonné, on s'étonnera que M. Wiss Wassef doive se borner à répéter cent fois une dizaine de petites ridicules. M. Wiss lui-même ne peut se faire illusion sur le côté mesquin de ses récriminations sensationnelles; pour les justifier, il fait de longues tirades sur l'oppression des autochtones par les envahisseurs, les maîtres, comme il les appelle; et c'est lui, un coiffeur, qui les attaque, lorsque, grâce à l'invasion, les coiffes peuvent dominer l'élément arabe, précisément dans cette branche visée de l'instruction publique. M. Wiss se targue des louanges du cheikh Aly Youssef. Il ne se rend pas compte que ses articles sont une bonne subline pour le Moqad et qu'en ce moment il est l'instrument inconscient d'une revanche contre ses propres coreligionnaires. S'il fallait en croire les révélations de M. Wiss Wassef, les Egyptiens en général et les professeurs égyptiens en particulier, ne raideraient guère plus que M. Danlop lui-même.

Je cite textuellement: "Le niveau moral baisse singulièrement dans ce pays; la constante et unique préoccupation des habitants de l'Egypte entière est aujourd'hui de s'enrichir, sans scrupule d'ailleurs sur le choix des moyens pour y parvenir." Et d'autres termes, tous les Egyptiens sont des canailles.

"C'est aussi avec une profonde tristesse que je constate l'habitude que nous avons prise de nous dénigrer les uns les autres; c'est même devenu une sorte de maniement et si plat."

Voilà tous les professeurs égyptiens devenus des canailles. M. Wiss Wassef compris.

Et un peu plus loin:

"Je crois pouvoir affirmer que je parle au nom de tous mes anciens collègues. Pen d'entre eux resteraient dans le service si le ministère acceptait de régler leur pension de retraite."

Ces Messieurs ne s'occupent donc plus que d'argent?

Eh! bien, non; quoiqu'en dise M. Wiss Wassef, le niveau moral des égyptiens n'a pas baissé. On est aussi laborieux et aussi honnête en Egypte que dans n'importe quel autre pays du monde. Les maîtres d'école y sont aussi dévoués, n'y ont pas aussi capables. Sina dont ils tiennent à l'argent, mais n'en font-il pas pour vivre?

Puis on examine les lettres de M. Wiss Wassef et plus on y voit un esprit aveuglé par la renommée au point d'attaquer ceux qu'il doit défendre, et de s'exposer au ridicule d'être lu par le Moqad pour avoir rompu une lance avec les protecteurs des coptes.

Les journaux du Caire et d'Alexandrie ont déjà expliqué les vrais motifs de la décadence des coptes supérieurs. Le gouvernement n'est pas empressé d'y apporter remède, cela n'empêchera pas M. Wiss Wassef de répéter nombre de fois encore ses mêmes historiettes sur M. Danlop. Lecteurs, armés, vous de patience!

CHRONIQUE JUDICIAIRE

UN PROCES INTERESSANT

Les terrains de l'île de Rodah

Mohamed bey Chérif, un des bédouins, claires du wakf de Mohamed pachà Chérif, vient d'acquiescer S. E. Abdoul-Halim pachà Assen, en sa qualité de directeur général des Wakfs, pour avoir cédé au Tancim deux feddans, du dit Wakf sis à Rodah, au prix de 300 livres l'un.

Mohamed bey Chérif estime que cette vente est préjudiciable aux intérêts des bénéficiaires et demande en conséquence que le directeur général des Wakfs soit condamné à payer la différence entre le prix de 300 livres auquel il l'a vendue, ou bien de recourir à des experts pour l'estimation des terrains en question.

On sait que S. E. Abdoul-Halim pachà Assen a conclu la vente qu'il a approuvée préalable du grand cadastre du Caire.

Un confesseur du Caire fait au sujet les remarques suivantes:

D'ailleurs, il n'est pas possible qu'un tel paiement des bédouins soit à l'honneur de la justice.

On sait que S. E. Abdoul-Halim pachà Assen a conclu la vente qu'il a approuvée préalable du grand cadastre du Caire.
